

The Corporate Shuffle

By Jesse Noyes

Sunday, April 30, 2006 - Updated: 01:12 AM EST

New talent was just couriered over to NOVA Marketing.

Phil Courier joined the Quincy-based ad shop as art director. Courier spent five years as an art director at TJX Companies before signing up with NOVA.

Katie Williams found a new Home.

Williams was named to the newly created position of marketing director at New England Home. The bimonthly magazine is put out by New England Media Partners.

Linda Salmon swam upstream to Valora Technologies.

Salmon landed a job as director of operations at the Waltham-based company.

Valora also tapped Matthew Pugielli as national sales director.

Carol Harris is turning off the Water Works and tuning into Woodard & Curran.

The former executive director of the Massachusetts Water Works Association took a spot as senior manager in Woodard & Curran's Andover office.

He's a big softy.

Pat McHale was promoted to senior vice president of worldwide support services at MRO Software. A former member of the U.S. Navy, McHale has been with MRO since 1990.

The search is over.

Senior-level executive search firm, Egon Zehnder International, promoted George L. Davis Jr. to co-managing partner of the firm's entire national business and head of its U.S. board consulting practice group. Davis is the founder and managing partner of the firm's Boston office.

E-mail The Corporate Shuffle: business@bostonherald.com

