VALORA TECHNOLOGIES AWARDED GSA CONTRACT #GS-03F-0110V

General Services Administration adds Valora to its schedule as contract holders to US government and non-government agencies

Washington DC – May 15, 2009 – The United States General Services Administration (GSA), an agency devoted to the efficient acquisition of services for the United States federal government, today awarded Valora Technologies a contract schedule as an approved vendor of document processing services to federal, state and local government agencies. Although Valora has worked with all levels of government in the past, the GSA award serves as a formal contract vehicle for government customers to directly utilize Valora’s services.

Valora Technologies is pleased to announce its new status as a Government Wide Acquisition Contract (GWAC) holder, as well as an eligible provider for small business and woman-owned company set asides. “I am thrilled that Valora has today been awarded a GSA Contract Schedule,” Valora’s President and CEO Sandra Serkes commented. As a co-founder of Valora Technologies, Inc., Ms. Serkes sees the GSA contract as a natural progression for the company. “Valora has consistently worked with myriad government agencies, but being a GWAC holder is a key component in working with federal agencies. This is a government-wide contract vehicle and we are now prime contract holders, allowing us to bid directly to hundreds of agencies and NGOs we may not have encountered otherwise.”

The GSA contract award complements Valora's prior award from the Government Printing Office (GPO), expanding its services to full litigation support for Government agencies. Valora intends to begin actively marketing its new contract vehicle immediately, with plans to expand further into the US military, and the Departments of Justice, Labor, Energy and the Interior.
